JEWELRY

APART from the unwavering and solid demand there is for brooches and bracelets, ornaments which cannot be disregarded with any toilet, and the wide range in hair ornaments from combs and barrettes to fillets and bandeaux, permitted by the present varying style of coiffure, we are inclined to give neckwear the first place as receiving the most prominent fashionable attention, Ear ornaments follow next with hair ornaments a close third.

NECKWEAR

Medallions or Plaques continue to grow wonderfully in popular fancy, possibly because the present fancies are even more dainty and delicate than ever. We have a collection of these ornaments which are unparalleled for absolute exclusiveness and distinctiveness in idea and designs indicating Art in its truest interpretation. Festoon necklaces and necklaces with pearshaped drops in fancy stones or stole effects in braided beads and bands also continue to command admiration while the neckchain and guard attached to a locket are indispensable ornaments for afternoon or day-wear.

EAR ORNAMENTS

The pendulum of fashion continues to support and patronise lavishly ear wear in even a more determined manner than ever. The only discouragement hitherto offered to a more universal use has been overcome and it is now no longer necessary to have the ears pierced in order to wear them; as the ear ornaments may now be attached to the ear by an invisible arrangement. We have a choice collection in earwear which will be found suitable for evening wear, or with very elaborate indoor costumes and also smaller designs for wear during the day or for out-of-door use. Our stock comprises a variety in style from the dainty diamond or pearl bouton close up to the ear to the hanging pendants and hoops, in plain gold or beautifully jewelled.

A YEAR of unprecedented splendour will be appropriately closed by the coming Durbar at Delhi, when the Indian Empire, magnificent, fascinating, complex, will draw all eyes to itself as it welcomes its Sovereign. The interest will be at its height during the weeks immediately preceding the Durbar ceremonies, and these pictures of India as it is are all by writers of acknowledged eminence. Sir W. Lee-Warner, as a member of the Council of India, has made the Native States his special study; Sir Thomas Holdich has spent his life in the Indian military and frontier service; Sir J. D. Rees is the author of "The Real India," etc.; Sir Charles Bruce was Director of Public Instruction in Ceylon; Col. G. H. Trevor has held both military and civil appointments and is well known as a sportsman; and Major Cardew was attached to one of the most famous regiments in Indian history—Hodson's Horse.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Mr. E. T. Lambert, the Coroner, held an inquest yesterday at the Morgue touching the death of a sweeper named Kanoo Dhurma, employed at the Mazagon Station of the G. I. P Railway. It appeared from the evidence that the deceased and another sweeper were sweeping a gutter situated between a wall and the down line and which is about a foot and a quarter wide. On hearing the whistle of a light engine, the other sweeper moved aside on to the up line, and after the engine had passed by, the deceased was found lying dead in the gutter. The engine stopped and the driver and others picked the deceased up. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

BOMBAY IMPROVEMENT TRUST.

An ordinary meeting of the Trustees for the improvement of the City of Bombay was held yesterday, the Hon'ble Mr. J. P. Orr, presiding.

The Board resumed consideration of the letter from Government, stating that they proposed to resume for a public purpose certains portion of the Parel Estate with the buildings situated thereon, and enquiring whether the Trustees had any objection to the proposed resumption and, if not, whether they would forego the six months' notice, and requesting to state the terms on which the Board would make over to Government any structures on the land proposed to be resumed.

The Board resolved:—"That the proposals that have been made as regards a new road from Elphinstone Road to Sewree should be explained to Government and it should be pointed out that the road must pass through the Parel Government House Estate. The Board will have no objection to the proposed resumption and to the waiving of the statutory six months' notice, if Government will undertake, in the event of the construction of the road being undertaken, to fill in the tank and construct so much of the road as lies within this Estate as the Trust would have been prepared to do, were there no such resumption. The Board are prepared to give up the existing buildings in return for compensation determined by a joint valuation by the Presidency Engineer and the Trust Engineer.

HARMSTON'S CIRCUS.

HARMSTON'S Circus is with us again after a lapse of two years and on Monday night next Madam Harmston-Love will present a new programme consisting of thirty turns. The site of the Circus is the Location, Chowpati, and here the tents will be pitched. A leading item on the programme will be Mr. John Rongal's animal act. Nine tigers will be made to perform in a specially erected cage in the ring. There will be sharp shooting by the Sisters Vasca and a clever exhibition of trick cycling, while the equestrian turns by Miss Jennie and Mr. W. Harmston-Love will of course be remembered and re-appreciated. Another interesting equestrian performance will be given by Master Clarence Bruce who claims to be the smallest jockey rider in the world. Furthermore, the Wambash will contribute a gymnastic display and musical melange while other accomplished aerobats in the programme are Velasco Ambrosia and Elias. The Donatos will introduce their French poodles and Tuxin "the man with the bottle" will elucidate his mysterious title. Throughout the performance the audience would be kept in high spirits by a strong contingent of clowns in Pimple and Silent Jim, Dick, Hayes and Auguste Shadow. The programme is a strong one, and, as the Bombay public know that Harmstons is invariably a good show, a large "house" or—"tent" one should say—May be expected next Monday evening.

EXCELSIOR CINEMATOGRAPH.

The current programme which is being shown at the above Cinematograph has been drawing big houses every night. The film entitled "In the grip of Alcohol" has been voted fine picture. This film depicts in a vivid manner the miseries which follow habitual indulgence in strong drinks. It shows how an honest French workman loses his employment and home, and how the confirmed drunkard eventually finds his boy a thief, and loses his daughter, and wife, the former a victim to consumption and the latter ending her own life by suffocation. He is finally seen in a madmen's cell. There are many other excellent pictures, besides this, constituting a fine programme.

BOMBAY HIGH COURT.

THE SIDDICK ESTATE.

ON the Original Side of the Bombay High Court, yesterday, the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Batchelor concluded the hearing of the appeal from a decision of Mr. Justice Russell, who, in the suit brought by Jimbabai, widow of the late Haji Saboo Siddick against the Advocate-General and others for setting aside a deed-poll, decreed the plaintiff's claim with costs.

After hearing the arguments, their lordships reserved judgment.

Immediately after, their lordships heard the appeal of Abdulla Abdul Rahim against Bai Jimbabai and others in the suit to set aside a second deed-poll in respect of the same estate. This deed also related to Mahomed, Haji Sabu's son.

Mr. Setalvad and Mr. Jinnah appeared for the appellants. The Advocate-General and Mr. Desai appeared for the first three respondents and the Advocate-General, Mr. Setalvad and Mr. Jardine were for the eighth respondent.

After hearing the arguments, in the course of which it was contended that the appellant had no locus standi, their Lordships reserved judgment.

COMMERCIAL GYMKHANA CASE

Hearing of the Appeal.

ON the Original Side of the Bombay High Court, yesterday, the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Batchelor heard the appeal from a decision of Mr. Justice Russell, who in the suit of Gerald Pickard against C. B. Robinson and others, dismissed the plaintiff's claim for an injunction, restraining the defendants from striking out his name from the list of members of the Bombay Commercial Gymkhana with costs.

The Advocate-General, Mr. Binning and Mr. Shortt appeared for the appellant. Mr. Weldon and Mr. Jardine represented the respondents.

The facts of this case have been fully reported when the case was heard in the Lower Court in February last.

The Advocate-General, in arguing the case, detailed the facts of the case, and said that the Rs. 750 which the plaintiff got did not even cover his costs. The plaintiff was suspended without any charge being framed against him or without giving him an opportunity of meeting any charge. Hence the suit. The committee purported to act under rule 15 and Mr. Justice Russell held that any member guilty of ungentlemanly conduct meant any man alleged to be guilty of or charged with ungentlemanly conduct. This would mean that any man charged under the Penal Code should be convicted straightway without any opportunity of defending him being given to him. He then held that suspension was not equal to expulsion and did not give rise to any cause of action. His case was that no opportunity was given to his client before suspension to show that the charge was groundless; that the plaintiff's attitude after the suspension was justified and that the suspension and expulsion both gave rise to a cause of action.

Further hearing was at this stage adjourned.

TRANSFERRED TO LONG CAUSES.

ON the Original Side of the Bombay High Court, in the suit brought by Narsingdas Jadhraj against Hookamchand Nensukhdas and others, before Mr. Justice Hayward, Mr. D. N. Bahadurji appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Bhulabhai Desai for defendants five to eleven, the other defendants did not appear.

Mr. Bhulabhai Desai put in a written statement of some of the defendants and asked for a transfer of the case to the list of the long causes.

Mr. Bahadurji proved his case as against the first four defendants. The plaintiff acted as their agents in Bombay, and there was due to him a sum of Rs. 5,187 on the agency account.

His Lordship passed a decree for the plaintiff for the amount claimed with interest and costs as against the first four defendants and transferred the suit to the long cause list as regarded the other defendants.

CLAIM FOR LOSS SUFFERED.

ON the Original Side of the Bombay High Court, yesterday, Mr. Justice Hayward disposed of the suit brought by Parshotamdas Ramgopal against Ramratan Jamnadas, in which the plaintiff sued the defendant on three contracts of wheat.

Mr. Munsiff appeared for the plaintiff. The defendant did not appear.

The plaintiff bought from the defendant a certain quantity of wheat by three contracts. On the date of delivery the defendant absconded. The contract was, thereupon, closed and the plaintiff thereby suffered a loss of Rs. 1,964.

His Lordship passed a decree for the amount with interest and costs.

POLICE COURTS.

RASH DRIVING.

YESTERDAY, at the Mazagon Police Court, before Mr. P. H. Dastur, Second Presidency Magistrate, Deputy Inspector Sutton charged Kasim Fakir Mahomed and Sheikh Hassam Sheikh Ibrahim, both drivers of Municipal cutchra motor vans with driving their vans in a manner so rash and negligent as to endanger human life. It appeared from the evidence that on Monday afternoon the two accused while driving their vans along Ripon Road raced, and the van driven by the second accused so closely followed that driven by the first accused that while the latter slowed down, it ran into it and threw it against a wall which was damaged. A tailor who was sitting in a a room behind the wall sustained injuries. Both the accused pleaded not guilty. His Worship held that both the accused had been going at a very rash speed and sentenced them to one month's rigorous imprisonment each.

LIKE A STAB IN THE BACK.

One of the symptoms of kidney disease is pain like a stab in the back. Others are: Dropsical swellings, dull ache in the loins, lumbago, urinary disorders, gravel and stone, uric acid poisoning, rheumatic pains, puffy eyes, inflammation of the bladder, weakness and drowsiness, impure blood, headaches and dizziness.

Kidney complaint does not affect everyone in the same way. No patient has ALL the symptoms, but EVERY patient has some of them. If, however, you have ANY trace of kidney and bladder weakness, your trouble may already have reached a more serious stage than you think. The kidneys may be breaking down, and the bladder may suddenly lose control of the water.

"EVERY PICTURE TELLS A STORY."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills cure disease by cleansing the urinary system, keeping the bladder active and helping the kidneys to throw off the excess uric acid and other poisons that cause the above symptoms and diseases. Doan's pills reach the CAUSE of kidney disease, that is why cures are lasting.

"The pains I had in my back were just like a stab," says Mr. C. Poynter, of 89, College Road, Masbro', Rotherham, England. "There were painful bladder disorders, too, and the water contained sediment.

"My ankles swelled, and I thought dropsy was setting in. I was always tired, and my heart was affected.

"I felt much better when I had taken two boxes of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, and before long the medicine made me well. IT IS THREE YEARS, SINCE I WAS CURED, yet I still keep well."

BURMA TEAK FORESTS.

MR. R. S. TROUP, the Imperial Agriculturist, has this week issued a note, giving statistical and other information regarding the teak forests of Burma, which is published as one of the Indian Forest Records series of handbooks. It is impossible, he tells us, to estimate even approximately the total area of teak forests in Burma, because a considerable proportion lies outside the limits of reserved forests. Reservation is still proceeding actively, but it is by no means completed yet; it may indeed be some years before even an approximate estimate of the total area can be formed; but the total area of reserved forests on the 30th June of last year was 25,691 square miles. The total area under sanctioned working plans on the same date was, according to official returns 7,279 square miles, the great bulk of which represents teak-bearing forest though it includes forests other than those bearing teak. Most of the teak forests, for which working plans have been compiled, have, it appears, been heavily worked—in some cases much overworked—in years past and contain a smaller proportion of large-sized timber than they should normally contain; some forests on the other hand have escaped lightly. The great majority of those of Pegu Yoma have been greatly overworked. Before the annexation of Upper Burma in 1886, the Pyinmana and Taungdwingyi forests were in parts almost recklessly depleted of large-sized timber while undersized trees were also filled in considerable numbers. In Prome, Tharrawady and Rangoon a good deal of girdling was carried out from 1856 onwards, but not to the same extent as in Pyinmana. In Pegu, Shwegyin and Toungoo a fair amount of girdling took place in the sixties and early seventies in some of the forests. There was, however, little or no working in four other reserves in the Tonngoo division. Chindwin forests before the annexation were heavily drawn upon in the more accessible tracts, but the Taungdwin forests being difficult of access were little worked, so that much teak remains available. The record of the Ruby Mines forests is similar, whilst the Madaya forests of Mandalay are shown to have been recklessly overworked in Burmese times. Working has not been excessive in the Mohnyim forest, on in those of East of Sittang, Zigon, Tharrawaddy and Rangoon, whilst three reserves have been practically untouched so far as teak is concerned.

Of all the teak forests in Burma, says Mr. Troup, those of which the growing-stock has hitherto been estimated, the Mohongin reserve in the Katha division easily heads the list so far as richness in large trees is concerned. This reserve contains considerable stretches of practically pure teak forest in which the trees attain large dimensions. In the Pyinmana reserves it is to be noted that the quantity of small teaks in the drier forests of the North is greater than in the moister reserves in the southern half of the division, showing in the drier and therefore more open teak forests reproduction ordinarily springs up in greater profusion than in the moister and denser forests. The profusion with which reproduction is springing up in the Kangyi reserve is remarkable and this is to be contracted with the state of affairs in the Mohnyin reserve, where reproduction is very poor in comparison, although these two reserves resemble each other in being both situated on alluvial land and being both exceptionally rich in large-sized teak. Mr. Troup draws attention to the considerable differences in the rate of growth of teak trees in the same locality. Not only does it differ in different localities, but trees growing almost side by side frequently exhibit widely differing rates of growth. In some cases it may be due to causes other than the factors of the locality, such as fire, suppression or injury from other causes, suppression by trees, bamboos or climbers, is the most patent factor in causing this difference in the rate of growth of trees in similar localities for a light-demanding species like the teak will stand little shade or interference with its crown, while it responds readily to any openings of the canopy, whether natural or artificial. There are also periodic interruptions to growth of which we are told that after proceeding normally for a time, suddenly the growth becomes abnormally slow, to such an extent that the rings are so close together as to be difficult, and in some cases impossible, to count with certainty. This period of slow growth would extend over a number of years and the growth would then again become normal. As many as four of these cycles of slow growth were noticed on some of the larger stumps, but the general number where they existed at all, was two or three.

Commenting on the yield and out-turn of the forests Mr. Troup writes that the periods of teak working-plans vary from twenty to forty years. Annual coupés would be impracticable in the teak forests of Burma because the collection of timber-dragging elephants and labour and the organisation of the work is a large business, which could not be transferred from coupé to coupé each year; for which reason sub-periodic and not annual felling areas are prescribed and the period of the working plan is divided into a number of sub-periods accordingly. It is mentioned as noteworthy that the bulk of the larger sized timber extracted hitherto under the prescriptions of working plans has come from the Myitmaka, Hlaing river drainage, which includes the forests of the Zigon and Tharrawaddy divisions and the Shwele forests of the Prome division—all extracted by Government agency. The small size of timber extracted from the Pyinmana forests is explained by the fact that previous to the British occupation of Upper Burma these forests had been heavily overworked and the quantity of large timber left for extraction during recent years has been comparatively small. The forests themselves, with the exception perhaps of the Sinsha reserve, are capable of producing timber of large size and it is only a matter of time until the average volume of logs may be expected to increase something approaching the standard of Lower Burma divisions. The Ruby Mines division in Upper Burma can so far claim the honour of having produced the largest teak log yet recorded—a log felled in 1898 measuring eighty-two and a half feet in length, over twelve feet in girth at the base and over seven feet in girth at the top and containing 507 cubic feet of timber. Of course fellings now are strictly regulated, new trees are perpetually being planted and as the approximate area of teak forests is not yet known Mr. Troup does not follow the lead of some writers on Burma who prophesy that the supply of teak will run out within a measurable distance of time.

A GREAT EDUCATIONAL CHANGE.

INDIAN educational methods are necessarily so much influenced by those which are adopted at Home, that we may appropriately devote space to the description of a new element, which is beginning to take a definite shape and place in the British system of instruction. Manual instruction is of course no new thing; its advantages have for long been advocated by private persons and private associations, and experimental classes have been formed in many scattered schools, but it is only recently that any steps have been taken preparatory to its introduction on a wide scale. This has been done in London, where a committee of educationists is inquiring into the question, with special reference to the advantages of manual training in preference to certain portions of the present curricula. Our information is not very definite on one point, but it does not appear as if this committee has been appointed by the education authority, though its work is certainly regarded with sympathy by the Education Committee, and it is expected that its conclusions will carry great weight with that body. The general idea is that the children should have a certain amount of manual instruction, which, it is contended, will go far to inculcate a love for manual work and a respect for the dignity of labour. Necessarily, all the children compelled by the Education Act to attend school are not clever, and it is known that many of the backward scholars can make better progress in manual than in mental learning. Bearing this in mind, experiments were commenced three years ago at one of the schools by segregating the backward children and introducing for them a large proportion of manual work. Since then continuous attention has been paid to this new phase of education, and manual instruction is now being tried experimentally in many schools.

The system is still in its experimental stage, but, as the report of the committee is likely soon to be published, there is a probability that great changes will in time be introduced in the elementary education system of the Metropolis. The attitude of the Education Committee towards the matter is well illustrated, in its recent action at at least one school, where it has been decided that a remodelled curriculum is necessary. This particular school is attended by children whose social conditions are probably the worst possible for their physical and intellectual, not to say moral, development, and the committee decided that unless the school can succeed in inspiring the children with an interest in life and an ideal far above anything provided for them in their home surroundings, the boys and girls are not likely to become useful citizens in the future. This it has clearly failed to do, and it has been agreed that at this school the curriculum shall be such as to give the children an intelligent appreciation of industrial occupations in general, without attempting to train them for any one in particular, and to provide facilities for acquiring that manual dexterity which adapts the pupil for the subsequent acquisition of skill in any industry. Should London lead the way in this respect it cannot be doubted that her example will rapidly be followed by many provincial centres, and the system will at length become general. India, of course, has too many educational problems on hand to be able to take this one into consideration for some time. But in the meantime, the impetus which manual instruction is receiving in England may be expected to have an effect upon a class of teaching, which it was recently decided to introduce into many Bombay schools. We refer to the rudimentary agricultural science which it is proposed to teach in the rural schools, and which teaching is in some respects analogous to manual instruction at Home. This, too, of course is only in an experimental stage, but we regard it as an experiment, which is full of promise, and any measure of encouragement from Home will be welcome.

NUMBERING OF MOTOR CARS.

WE certainly join with Mr. Dhondy in his desire that none of the motor-cars, which make so much noise and raise so much dust in Bombay's streets, should escape the taxes which are due from them. At the same time a lot of fuss has been made, surely, about a small matter. In a town like Bombay, where there are several motor-dealers, it is obvious that a number of cars, which are given Bombay numbers pending sale must eventually be removed beyond the ken of the Bombay police, who in this instance are the tax collectors. It was stated at the Corporation that apprehension that car-owners, who should pay taxes in Bombay, were avoiding them had been caused by the fact that although cars in the City were numbered so high as 1,700 or 1,800, yet the number of vehicles on which the tax was levied was only 400. We should have thought that the greatness of the discrepancy between the numbers, would itself have suggested that there was some special reason for it, a bigger reason than a little lack of vigilance on the part of the police, or a little extra alertness on the part of the car-owner. However, when the reason had been clearly given as it evidently had been before the discussion was commenced, it should have been accepted by the councillors as reasonable men. Instead, an attempt was made to force upon the police a system of consecutive numbering of cars, owned by Bombay residents. It should not have needed an explanation from the Municipal Commisioner to show that under the circumstances such a system is impossible, and it was somewhat generous of him to offer, in order to pacify the complaining members, that he would report whether any change in the present system of numbering is desirable. Nothing to suggest such a desirability was shown in the discussion. The makers of the complaints could point to nothing, but a discrepancy in numbers, which can easily be explained. It is obviously easy for the police to make a distinction in their registers between cars owned by Bombay residents and those which are purchased by people up-country. In fact, every car originally registered here would remain on the list of those liable to tax until the person who registered it showed cause for its removal. We can therefore see no reason why any apprehension should ever have been entertained.

A SMALL committee is now considering at Simla the question of economies in Army expenditure.

OFFICIAL statistics show that the Kaiser is the greatest land owner in Germany. He possesses eighty three estates, covering an area of approximately 250,000 acres. The revenues from these estates flow into his pocket quite apart from his allowance of nearly £1,000,900 per annum from the Treasury. The other principal land owning magnates in Germany are:—Prince Pless, 75 estates, 125,000 acres; Duke of Ujest, 52 estates, 100,000, acres Duke of Ratibor, 54 estates, 32,000 acres; King of Saxony, 50 estates, 75,000 acres.

THE WORLD OF SPORT.

(FROM OUR SPORTING CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, SEPT. 22.

THE 1912 OLYMPIAD.

The publication of the programme for the Olympic Games of 1912 is a reminder that we are again within a short period of another struggle for supremacy among the sportsmen of the world. It is hardly likely that the majority of Olympic events will again be won by representatives of the British Empire, the advantage of being at home having a lot to do with the overwhelming success in 1908. Moreover, European nations have made remarkable progress in sports and pastimes during the last three years, and competition at Stockholm is likely to be far more open than at the last festival. About the only safe thing to predict is that representatives of the United States will win the majority of the purely track and field athletic events, which will claim attention between July 6 and July 15.

The programme differs somewhat from the 1908 list of events. There will be no steeplechase, nor catch as catch car-wrestling, which British and United States athletes will rather deplore. On the other hand, a cross country race, and a 200 miles road cycling race will figure, and both should be attractive additions. Another new departure will be swimming races for women, whilst the three all-round competitions should also prove interesting.

A FINE WALKER.

Apropos of the next Olympic Games, G. Goulding of Canada will have no easy task against A. C. St. Norman, the newest find in South Africa, St. Norman's three miles in 20 mins. 49 secs. at the Transvaal championships stamps him as a fine athlete, and providing his style is satisfactory, the prospects of the South African taking Olympic honours are not to be dispised. As to his style, if it is as fair as W. S. Miller of Cape Town, the champion of a few years back, the new star will have nothing to fear from the judges.

ATHLETIC SOLDIERS.

The Military Obstacle Race for the Duke of Connaught Shield is one of the finest tests of stamina soldier athletes are called on to perform. The course of about one mile bristles with obstacles—stone wall, water jumms, posts and rails, etc., with stiff redoubt to climb at about the three-quarter mile stage. As the competitors wear drill order dress, and have to carry rifles, it will easily be understood that the ordeal is a trying one. The honours in the latest race went to the 2nd battalion Royal Dublin Fusiliers in 7 mins 28 3-5 secs. It should be added that this does not represent the time of the best man, but of the whole team of 106 officers and men, who finished splendidly together, not a single man dropping out.

SPLENDID CYCLING.

England finds it hard to hold her own at many branches of sport now-a-days, so that the success of the home riders in the International cycle races against France at Herne Hill last Saturday, was very pleasing. Four riders represented each country and the four heats of one mile each were so arranged that each man met each of his rivals. England's win was complete, the home riders finishing first and second in each heat, V. Johnson winning two and G. B. Kingbury two. It may be added that France lacked the services of M. Schilles but as W. J. Bailey, the world's champion, has retired for the season, England was not at full strength.

There was some fine riding outside the International event, V. Johnson beating Kingsbury in the one lap scratch race, and repeating the performance in the five miles level event. In this however, he was disqualified for having accidently bored his rival, an incident which is worth noting after certain happenings at the last Olympic Games.

Whilst dealing with cycling matters, reference may be made to another fine ride by C. Moss in the Speedwell B. C. 100 miles unpaced road race, the Birmingham crack getting the course in 5 hours 2 mins. 25 secs.

BOXING.

The outcry against the Johnson vs. Wells boxing match has developed into alarming proportions. At the onset, many expressed regret that Wells had made the match, contending that his experience did not warrant his flying so high. Since then, all the opponents of manly sports seem to have rallied together for the purpose of stopping the match, which is termed a brutal exhibition. The faddists are pretty numerous, but the common sense of the people will not permit a lot of flabby individuals, who dread warfare and danger, to stop a jolly fine game like boxing, that, of course, being the real aim of the faddists. Englishmen were better men when wars were more prevalent than nowadays, and Patriots recognise that it is necessary to keep alive the fighting spirit. Johnson and Wells are both splendid boxers, and there will probably be less "roughing" than one sees at the inter-Varsity and Public Schools championships. Personally the writer does not approve of contests between white and coloured rivals, but it would be a grave mistake to give way to the faddists in this case.

Statements to the contrary notwithstanding, Johnson is training faithfully for the match, as he says he cannot afford to take chances against a man on whom Porky Flynn of Chicago could hardly lay a glove.

A week ago Johnson weighed 220 lbs. as against Wells' 192 lbs. The white man has two inches the advantage in height and five in reach, but is smaller in other respects. Wells is clever, but inclined to leave himself open when excited, which is not to be wondered at in a comparatively young boxer. Where Johnson holds the advantage, is in his ability to hit hard, and one of his blows are probably worth two of the white man's. It also remains to be seen if Wells can stand punishment. Moir beat him with one good punch, though that may have been exceptional. One must admire Wells for his pluck, and whilst wishing him luck, most good judges cannot fancy his chance.

CRACK SWIMMERS.

Harold Hardwick gathered in another English championship at Sheffield on Monday, when he won the 220 yards honours from J. G. Hatfield in 2 mins 33 3-5 secs. As the 17 years old Middlesborough swimmer was only beaten by two yards it appears as though it will only be a question of time when he takes championship rank. England has another promising swimmer in H. E. Annison, who ought to do well in a year or so. He won the Southern Junior 100 yards championship early in the week in 65 1-5 secs. and a few nights later reduced his record to 64 4-5 secs when swimming second in the Humphreys Challenge Cup race at the Otter S. C. gala. This is smart swimming for a lad who was only 16 years old last December, and providing he does not overdo matters for the next few years, he ought to take high rank.

FOOTBALL.

Efforts are again been made to heal the breach between the Football Association and the Amateur Football Association. There can be little doubt that the game would be all the better if the leading clubs—Corinthians, Varsities, Public Schools, etc. helped the F. A. in running the game, instead of going their own way. If the management of the F. A. has got into the hands of the representatives of the professional clubs, the fault lies with the amateurs themselves, because the amateur clubs affiliated to the association far outnumber the professional organisations. The approach of the next Olympiad in the reason new efforts have been made to bring about peace, and if this can be done, it will lead to a far more representative team.

TOURISTS.

The Corinthian team, which has just finished a tour in Canada and the United States, did far better than one could have hoped, for it must be confessed that the combination did not look over strong on paper. A record of 19 wins, 1 defeat, and 1 draw, with 119 goals for and only 29 against, speaks very well however, and indicates that "soccer" across the Atlantic is as yet only moderate. We shall have further chances of judging this, when the Canadian team about to tour here has played a few matches. Writing about visiting teams, the English Wanderers tour in Russia, Finland, Sweden, and Denmark shows how the game is spreading. The Russians were badly beaten, but Finland only went under by 1 goal to 0, Stockholm by 2 goals to 1, whilst Denmark defeated the visitors by 6 goals to 2 and 1 goal to 0, the record of the tour being 6 wins and 2 defeats.

LEAGUE FOOTBALL.

A good many people considered the win of Bradford City over Newcastle United in the final of the F. A. Cup last season to be something of the nature of a fluke. The form of the Yorkshire club during the present month goes to show otherwise however, the Cup holders alone having won all their engagements in League matches. Another interesting feature of the League competition is the manner West Bromwich Albion and Bolton Wanderers are performing. These are the clubs which gained promotion from the Second to the First Division of the League, yet they now rank second and third in the table of merit. West Bromwich's performance in beating (1-0) Manchester United, the League champions of last season, deserves special mention.

Perhaps the draw (1—1); which Tottenham Hotspur managed to make on visiting Sunderland was one of the best performances among last Saturday's League matches, and the "Spurs" share with Bradford City the distinction of being undefeated so far.

The six goals to two victory which Aston Villa gained over Manchester City was not entirely a tribute to the skill of the visitors. The chief factor was the injury to the home goalkeeper soon after the start, which compelled him to retire. The incident once more illustrates the unfairness of a rule which allows a team to be handicapped through accident or the roughness rivals.

IN GENERAL.

M. J. G. Ritchie showed to advantage during the Brighton lawn tennis tournament, when he easily won the singles and also carried off the mixed doubles with the assistance of Mrs. Larcombe.

The spectators at the Aberdeen and Glasgow Rangers match last Saturday, took the defeat of the home side so badly that they mobbed two of the Glasgow players as they were leaving the field.

Eric Fairbairn, the Old Cambridge Blue, made a good fight of it for the Dutch amateur sculling championship at Amsterdam, as he was only three-quarters of a length behind B. von Gaza at the finish, after fouling the turning buoy.

Lacrosse gains in popularity in England every season and it flourishes very strongly in the north, no fewer than 43 clubs having entered for this season's Northern Association championship tournament.

The splendid form of H. H. Hilton on the United States golf courses is giving his English admirers much satisfaction.

F. Wootton has now improved his percentage of winners to 25·09 as the result of 138 wins in 550 attempts.

The Summer Steeplechase Meetings at Blackpool did not prove quite the success the enterprise deserved, the dry weather and strikes being handicaps. Viewed altogether, however, the promoters have no need to feel dissatisfied, and much better results may be expected in 1912.

BOMBAY PORT TRUST.

At a meeting of the Trustees held on the 10th October the following note on the Revenue Receipts for the half year ended 30th September 1911 was submitted;—

In view of the monsoon of 1910 being on the whole a favourable one the Trustees Budget estimates for 1911-12 were framed on a slightly higher scale than the previous year.

In consideration of the various schemes either under construction or contemplated it was decided to strengthen the Revenue Reserve Fund and with this in view the rebate which had been granted to the Trade during the past four years was discontinued.

The following statement compares the Revenue with the corresponding periods of the two previous years under the different section :—

	1911-12	1910-11.	1909-10.
Bunder Properties	13,77,000	13,35,000	12,66,000
Prince's and Victoria Docks ...	20,67,000	22,13,000	17,86,000
Merewether Dry Dock	76,000	74,000	69,000
Miscellaneous and Interest ...	2,82,000	2,43,000	2,35,000
Port Department	1,29,000	1,28,000	1,19,000
Pilotage Dept. ...	1,19,000	1,21,000	1,09,000
Gross Receipts ...	40,50,000	41,14,000	35,84,000
Rebate	......	2,44,000	2,07,000
Net Receipts Rs.	40,50,000	38,70,000	33,77,000

The gross receipts under all heads for the six months ending 30th September 1911 show a decrease of Rs. 64,000 as compared with the corresponding period of 1910-11.

Under Bunder Properties the gross receipts are practically the same last year and the small increase of Rs. 46,000 is mainly on account of arrears of ground rents recovered on leaseholds at Sewri.

Under Princes and Victoria Docks the decrease of Rs. 1,46,000 is due principally to Wharfage Fees, extra fees and ground rents, and uncleared Warehouse rent. As regards wharfage fees there has been a decrease in the imports of Machinery and grain and in the exports of Cotton seed, Twist and yarn and Manganese Ore.

Under "Interest and Miscellaneous" there is an increase of Rs. 39,000 due chiefly to interest on current deposits, which is always a fluctuating account and is depended on the early balances in hand.

The other departments, Merrewether Dry Dock Port and Pilotage show no appreciable difference and call for no comment.

OUR AMUSEMENTS (?)

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—In justice to the "Excelsior" show I must admit that on previous visits their pictures have been either interesting or amusing, but I think what they have put on this week "In the grip of alcohol" appears to require the Censor to step in.

We see quite sufficient in the way of the gruesome in everyday life out here to have such an exhibition in the way of amusement (!). Its appalling character is quite beyond the limit and to put this on at the 7 to 8 show when so many ladies and children are present is objectionable.—Yours, etc.,

QUAI-HAI.

Bombay, Oct. 10.

TURKEY ASKS FOR TERMS.

UNPOPULARITY OF HER GOVERNMENT.

Italians in Turkey not to be Molested.

WARNING FROM THE POWERS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 9.

Russia has protested to Turkey against making grain contraband, stating that the Russian Black Sea trade is already suffering severely thereby.

MALTA, Oct. 9.

The Italian destroyer "Borea" has arrived here, convoying a steamer with all the Turkish officials in Tripoli on board.

The authorities have refused to provision the "Borea."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct 9.

The Porte has called the attention of the Powers to the new situation created by the landing of Italians in Tripoli, and has again urged mediation on the basis of the satisfaction of Italian interests and the safe-guarding of Ottoman rights.

The Tanin comments violently on this action, which it describes as running like beggars from door to door, and suggests that the simplest course would be to hang out notices "Land for sale in European and Asiatic Turkey."

The state of public feeling in Constantinople is disquieting, and the unpopularity of the Committee of Union and Progress is its most remarkable feature. The efforts of the Young Turks to retain control of affairs by a Cabinet, composed largely of men of straw, has provoked the charge that the Committee is placing personal interests before those of the country.

It is reported that the Committee is secretly distributing arms to its supporters in anticipation of adverse demonstrations.

MILAN, Oct. 10.

It is understood that the Powers will make representations to Constantinople, pointing out that Italy will abandon the principle of limiting the war to Tripoli, if the Porte is unable to restrain excesses against the Italians in Turkey.

ROME, Oct. 10.

It is officially announced that at the request of Baron Marschall von Biberstein, the German Ambassador to Turkey, the Porte has suspended the expulsion of the Italians.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.

The request of the Porte to be informed as to Italy's terms is already the subject of an exchange of views between the Cabinets of Europe.

SOFIA, Oct. 10.

The Bulgarian Government has requested the Powers to make urgent representations to Constantinople to secure the discontinuance of the mobilisation in the vilayet of Adrianople, which Bulgaria describes as unjustifiable.

MALTA, Oct. 10.

The Italian destroyer "Borea" has been granted sufficient supplies to enable her to reach Syracuse. The commander's request for supplies to reach Tripoli was refused.

Contraband on Grain.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

A telegram from Constantinople states that Baron Marschall von Biberstein, the German Ambassador, advised Turkey to exclude grain from the list of contraband articles, as it would not affect Italy but would annoy the Powers, especially Russia and Great Britain.

The Times states that the Baltic Exchange was thrown into consternation by Turkey's declaration that grain was contraband. From two to three hundred vessels of five thousand tons were held up in the Black Sea. October is usually the busiest month for Black Sea chartering, but yesterday business was at a standstill. Representatives of the owners went to the Foreign Office to protest.

Late in the evening a telegram from Turkey agreed to allow the free passage of neutral³ through the Dardanelles, and relieved the anxiety.

PUBLIC MEETING IN BOMBAY.

A public meeting of the Bombay Mahomedans was held yesterday evening in the Anjuman-i-Islam Hall to express their indignation at the action of Italy in declaring war. Sir Currimbhoy Ebrahim, Bart., was voted to the chair. The hall was over-crowded.

The Chairman, in opening the proceedings, said:—Gentlemen,—I must thank you for electing me as the Chairman of this large, influential and representative gathering of the Mahomedans of this, the second city in the Empire. The object of the meeting is well-known. We have gathered here this evening to record our protest against this unprovoked, unjust and unrighteous war. From one point of view, this war is a menace to the peace of the world. There is, not an iota of justification for it. One of the reasons, at any rate, assigned for undertaking the war, is that if it is not undertaken now, in another five or ten years, Turkey would be too strong on the sea for the war to be undertaken at all. In other words, Italy has undertaken an open act of piracy, in defiance of all cannons of international law or international morals. Outside Italy, nowhere in the world, has any attempt been made either to justify or defend the action of Italy. Indeed the world's Press, with an unanimity rare in modern times has condemned Italy's action, in unmistakable language. It could not be otherwise for once you admit the principle that might is right, you run the risk of letting loose the hounds of war, and of all smaller states or weaker powers being conquered by those possessed of superior arms, and superior strength. In this case, Turkey is at a great disadvantage owing to her being so weak on the sea, but right is on her side and our earnest prayer is that her cause may, in the end, triumph. It is a matter of great surprise and regret to me, that in this instance, the Powers have stood aloof, and made no response to the repeated calls of Turkey to intervene and put an end to this unjustifiable war. That the sympathies of the Moslem world are entirely with Turkey is clearly proved by the telegrams that have been published in the newspapers from all parts the world.

"In the resolutions that will be placed before you this evening, we have attempted to give expression to our sense of indignation against Italy, and our sympathy with Turkey. I have no doubt these resolutions will be carried by you unanimously.

"The only way in which we can tangibly assist Turkey would be by raising subscriptions for the alleviation of the sufferings of her wounded soldiers or the widows and orphans of those who shed their blood in the cause of their country. In this connection, we have the precedent of the year 1877, when subscriptions were collected in Bombay and sent to Constantinople, with the object stated above by me."

The Hon'ble Mr. Ibrahim Rahimtoolla then moved the first resolution which ran as follows:—That this meeting of the Musalmans expresses its high indignation at the aggressive and outrageous action of Italy in declaring an unjust war against Turkey and occupying Tripoli against all canons of international law.

The resolution having been seconded by various speakers in different languages, was carried unanimously.

Mr. Kazi Kabiruddin then proposed that having regard to the fact that England has the largest number of Mahomedans under her sway, and that some of our ministers have consistently followed a pro-Islamic policy, and in particular have supported Turkey, this meeting considers it highly desirable and earnestly hopes that England should use her best efforts to put an end to this unjust and unrighteous war.

The Hon'ble Mr. Fazulbhoy Currimbhoy in seconding the proposition said:—Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen, I have great pleasure in seconding the Resolution which has been placed before you in such an able manner, by my friend Mr. Kaji Kabirrudin. England has of course proclaimed her neutrality, and she will righteously keep aloof from any part in the war. But England is the greatest Mahomedan Power in the world, and as such she may well use her influence. Although she may not take any part in the war there is nothing to prevent her from using her best efforts to bring this matter before the Hague tribunal, and Mahomedans all over the world, be they the subjects of the British Government or not, look to her to exert herself, to put an end to this most provokingly unjust war of our times.

Various speakers having addressed the meeting, the resolution was carried.

On the motion of Mr. Miya Mahomed Jan Mahomed Chhoteni, it was resolved to empower the managing committee of the Anjuman-i-Islam to raise subscriptions to aid the families of those killed and wounded and others rendered destitute by this war.

Mr. Chhotani announced amidst cheers that Sir Currimbhoy Ebrahim, Mr. Sulleman Cassum Mitha and himself had each subscribed Rs. 5,000 towards this fund and that other subscriptions amounting to over Rs. 8,000 had been promised.

The following resolutions were then adopted:—

That this meeting warmly sympathises with Turkey and acknowledges the service which the European Press have rendered in condemning the action of Italy, and that copies of these resolutions be forwarded to the Home Secretary to the Government of India, to the Foreign Secretary in England and to the Grand Vazier of Turkey.

On the motion of Mr. Haji Esmail, it was resolved to boycott Italian goods. It was further resolved to approach the Government of India requesting them to take steps whereby food for the Hajis might reach its destination and not be stopped at Aden.

A vote of thanks to the chair terminated the proceedings.

MELBOURNE, Oct. 10.

The Irish Nationalist envoys have collected a sum of £5,000 in Queensland. They were met on their arrival here by an enthusiastic crowd and were welcomed by Mr. Fisher, Premier of the Commonwealth, and Mr. Murray, Premier of Victoria.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Mr. Redmond, speaking at Swindon, said that nobody had asked for the repeal of the Union, but merely for a subordinate parliament, similar to twenty-eight subordinate parliaments already existing in the Empire, which had everywhere created loyalty, contentment and prosperity.

Dealing with the religious question, he said that if the French Catholics could be trusted, the Irish Catholics could be trusted to fight Britain's battles. The cry of intolerance about the Catholics of Ireland was unjust, dishonest and unintelligent.

Lord Haldane, speaking at Aberdeen, said:—"We had passed a crisis unexampled in foreign affairs. We should be sympathetic with nations like Germany and Italy who had not had our opportunities of territorial acquisition. Sir Edward Grey had maintained peace for nearly six years, and we would labour strenuously to preserve this record."

INDIAN ARCHÆOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT.

Lord Minto Supports Lord Curzon's Protest.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

The India Society has written to the Earl of Crewe, earnestly urging upon his lordship the importance of maintaining the Indian Archæological Department upon its present lines.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Lord Minto, in a letter to the Times, fully supports Lord Curzon's protest against the proposed abolition of the post of Director-General of Archæology. It is impossible Lord Minto says, to overestimate the magnificent work which Lord Curzon did for India in the constant care of its priceless archæological treasures. While in the appointment of Mr. J. H. Marshall he discovered a Director-General whose tactful and expert services were beyond praise. A reversion to the provincial system would result either in the neglect of India's ancient monuments or ill-considered and ruinous attempts at so called restoration. The Government of India could not divest itself of responsibility for matters of Imperial interest, among which India's Archæological possessions held an exceptional position.]

In the same way, Lord Haldane said, King George, when the Parliament Bill was threatened with rejection, wisely assented to the creation of a sufficient number of peers to assert the title of the Commons to prevail in conflict with the Lords.

DERAILMENT ON BENGAL RAILWAY.

Rumoured Attempt to Wreck Mail Train.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CALCUTTA, Oct. 10.

From the reports that have reached Calcutta, regarding the derailment of an up-goods train last Saturday night between Domar and Chilhati stations on the Eastern Bengal State Railway, in which the engine and 18 vehicles were wrecked and some railway employes were badly injured, there appears to have been a deliberate attempt made to wreck the Darjeeling down-mail. According to one version of the accident, the metals had been tampered with in the vicinity previous to the passage of the down-train from Darjeeling on Saturday, but little was thought of it at the time. The wreck is looked upon by the officials as one of the worst of the kind they have had on the line for a long time, although there has been no loss of life. The scene of the derailment is one mass of confusion, wagons are broken to splinters, telescoped with one another, and pyramided into such a chaotic state that it will take some time to clear the track. The engine of the goods train is said to be a complete wreck. The driver and fireman, it is stated, jumped out just in time to save their lives, but were seriously injured in doing so. They were taken in charge by the train officials and are being brought to Calcutta.

It is rumoured at Darjeeling that the derailment on the E.B.S. Ry. was due to the removal of a rail with the deliberate intention of wrecking the Darjeeling mail. Mr. Weston, it is said, intended to travel by that train but came away a day earlier. There were some high officials in the Darjeeling mail train on the night of the occurence, including Mr. Plowden, Deputy Superintendent General of Police, and the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta.

CALCUTTA, Oct. 10.

Further enquiries into the recent outrage on the Eastern Bengal State Railway show that two fish-plates on the line between Domar and Chilhati were removed on Saturday night and that an up-goods train which came along 56 minutes after midnight was derailed. The engine and eighteen waggons of the goods train left the line, the driver and firemen were slightly injured.

A high railway official interviewed said:—"It is all nonsense talking about the down mail and giving as a reason for the supposed attempt on the fact that Mr. Weston intended to travel by that train. Mr. Plowden who was said to have travelled by the down Darjeeling mail did not come down to Calcutta, he is now at Darjeeling and the Commissioner of Police did not go to Darjeeling by the next up-mail."

THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCILS.

Constitutional Changes Contemplated.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

SIMLA, Oct. 10.

The Government of India have under consideration the question of the revision of the regulation governing the constitution and working of the legislative councils in the various provinces. The opinions of the local Governments on this intricate point have already been received and these were lately examined by a Committee of the Viceroy's Executive Council. At one time it was thought probable that the Government would consult the non-official members of the Supreme Council, but it was found that the local Governments have already ascertained the views of the public bodies and prominent citizens of their respective provinces. The changes contemplated are mainly formal and in a very few cases only have recommendations been made for a redistribution of seats.

The Government of India have no intention at present of taking up the revision of the regulations in connection with the Imperial Council.

DACOITIES IN DACCA DISTRICT.

Commissioner Confers with Leading Men.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CALCUTTA, Oct. 10.

Mr. Bonham Carter, Commissioner in the Dacca Division, with the Sub-divisional Magistrate of Munshigunj, recently made a tour round the sub-division conferring with all presidents of unions, pension-holders and other influential men on the question of adopting means to suppress crime. The Commissioner has also issued a letter through the District and Sub-divisional Magistrate on all union presidents commanding them to hold meetings at their respective unions and directing them to send immediately a list of persons who have attended and a list of those of any influence or position that have failed to attend.

The Commissioner admits in his letter that the vast majority of the population of the sub-division detest dacoities and that those that commit or sympathise with the crimes are few. He further observes that is is not only shameful but ridiculous, that the great majority of law-abiding citizens should be in fear of these few evil-doers.

In obedience to the above requisition, public meetings were held in all the unions throughout the sub-division within the last three or four days. It was unanimously resolved in all the meetings that every village or union should be provided with fire-arms and guns.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Details of Rawalpindi Tragedy.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LAHORE, Oct. 10.

A shocking tragedy resulting in two deaths is reported from Rawalpindi. It appears that on Saturday evening Mr. W. Burton, Deputy Superintendent of Police, Sialkot, and Mrs. De Vergne, were both found dead. The deaths having been caused by revolver shots. It is supposed that Mr. Burton who had been greatly worried by domestic troubles shot Mrs. De Vergne and then committed suicide. Mrs. Burton leaves a family of seven children.

LATER.

From the later reports about the Rawalpindi tragedy it appears that on the evening of 7th about 8-15 p. m. a young man named Palmer, an apprentice in the Locomotive Workshops at Rawalpindi, reported to the police that Mrs. De Vergne, residing at No. 88 Bungalow, Muree Road, had been shot by Mr. Burton, Deputy Superintendent of Police. The Superintendent of Police with some of the Cantonment police and Palmer went to No. 88 Bungalow and there found Mrs. De Vergne lying dead on the verandah. A small Mauser pistol was discovered lying about three paces from the body. A search of the house was then made and the dead body of Mr. Burton was found in one of the main rooms of the house. A six chambered revolver bearing his name was lying by the deceased police officer's side. The Mauser pistol contained five loaded cartridges and one empty cartridge case and the other weapon also contained one discharged and five loaded cartridges. Later on, a third revolver was found in the chest of drawers in the house and this is stated to have been the property of Mrs. De Vergne, It is stated that a document was found on the body of Mr. Burton saying that he intended to commit the crime. The bodies were subsequently removed to hospital. Post mortem examinations disclosed the fact that Mrs. De Vergne had received two wounds, one being in the heart and Mr. Burton had been wounded at two places. In the latter case one wound appeared to have been caused by the small Mauser pistol and the other by deceased's own revolver.

SIMLA BOY SCOUTS.

Entertained by the Vicereine.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

SIMLA, Oct. 10.

Her Excellency Lady Hardinge very kindly entertained the Boy Scouts at a series of athletic sports at Annandale this afternoon. Fully 60 Scouts of the 1st of the Town and 2nd of Bishop Cotton School troops took part, The programme, comprising twelve events, is too numerous to detail, but they were all keenly contested and some such as sack, boot, and three-legged races and "hidden treasure" afforded great amusement and excitement.

The prize-winners were highly delighted with the prizes which were of great variety and very appropriate consisting of cricket and racquet bats, hockey sticks, watches, etc.

After distributing the prizes Captain Ogg, the Scout Master, called for three cheers for Lord and Lady Hardinge which were very heartily accorded. The Boys then adjourned to refreshments which were in abundance and dantily arranged on separate tables in the open and under a long shamiana and were greatly appreciated. Half a dozen of the 4th Gurkhas paraded about the flat with their bagpipes all the time.

It was one of the most delightful and happy gatherings witnessed at Annandale. Their Excellencies the Viceroy and Lady Hardinge, the Hon. Diamond, the Hon. A. Hardinge, His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief and Staff, Sir James and Lady Walker, Mrs. Clark and the Hon'ble Mr. and Mrs. Butler, the Hon. E. Hardinge, Viscount and Lady Hardinge were present.

THE SITUATION AT SHIRAZ.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LAHORE, Oct. 10.

News from Shiraz, dated 21st September says:—The rumour that the Nizam has been dismissed is confirmed, but he has declined to accept his dismissal and remains in possession of Government House. Meanwhile Solat has come in and taken up quarters in Baghi Takst. For the last three days basars have been closed owing to the threatened attack by Arabs, Arabs are steadily fortifying their quarters. Now the Governor General of Fars is Rukhe Dowla and he has appointed a local man his deputy. The latter's house was however raided and he was himself sent off as prisoner to Solat. Solat is believed to have released him and sent him either to Bushire or Ispahan though there is rumour that the man is killed.

THE ESPERANTO CONGRESS.

An Interesting Gathering.

Addressing a Liverpool group of Esperantists on September 14 assembled under the presidentship of Mr. Gabriel Lewis, F.B.E.A., at the Y.M.C.A., Mount Pleasant, Lieut-Col. John Pollen, C.I.E., claimed that Esperanto would prevent strikes throughout the civilised world. He declared that behind the language was the great force known as the "spirit" or "internal idea" of Esperantism—aiming as brotherhood and justice amongst the peoples high and low, rich and poor, capitalists and labourers. Dr. Pollen condoled with the Liverpool Esperantists who had been prevented by the strikes from attending the great Antwerp Congress of Esperantists last month, and then proceeded to describe that great event. The investiture of Dr. Zamenhof with the Order of Isabella the Catholic was a deeply interesting and unique ceremony, and it illustrated the amalgamating power of the new tongue. There in Antwerp, in the presence of the quondam protesting and rebellious Borgomaster and Council, his Majesty the King of Spain bestowed the Catholic Order of Isabella on Zemenhof the author of Esperanto, a Russian-Polish Semite. All the proceedings at Antwerp were conducted in Esperanto; a High Mass was celebrated, Protestant services held, and sermons preached in the international neutral language. During the week the great Theatre at Antwerp was placed at the disposal of Congress, and several Esperanto plays were admirably acted by eminent Flemish artists and concerts given. On the last day of the Congress the Chief of the Antwerp Police addressed the meeting in fluent Esperanto and pointed proudly to the fact that some seventy of his men had learnt the language. A message was received from the Lord Mayor of London, and another from the King of the Belgians. Ten great Governments sent official delegates to the Congress, and some thirty-three countries were represented, 1,730 members attended, and but for the strikes the attendance would have been much larger. Esperanto was steadily spreading in all parts of the world.

MANKIND AT MUSSOOREE

Most of us know the sensations of embarking on a long railway journey at Victoria Terminus, the mild panics in respect of one's baggage, the cold though silent criticism of one's carriage companions the covert glances at the card outside to see who and what they are. Mine soon resolved themselves into a placid Parsee, a gentleman from Madras who had the same ultimate destination in view as I had, and a good example of the American Round the World tourist, bound for Agra. A certain well-known and essentially Civil Engineer also accompanied us as far as Nasik. After a journey, fraught with lack of incident, beyond the attempted consumption on my part at Thansi of an aged murgi, the toughness of which baffles description, we arrived at Delhi on the evening following, by which time I had lost all my original travelling companions. The last to leave was the American, to whose cold eyes I indicated the matchless Taj in the distance as we approached Agra. He regarded it critically for a moment, then gradually brought his comprehensive gaze to rest on a field we were passing. "Gee," he said, "re . . . markably fine goats they grow hereabouts."

At Delhi I transferred myself and belongings to another train, wherein I had taken the precaution to reserve a berth in a through carriage for Dehra Dun. This last portion of the journey was, indeed, the embodiment of comfort, for I had the compartment with its four electric fans and bathroom attached, to myself. I have never before had the opportunity of bathing in a train and I can recommend it as an innocent and exciting pastime well calculated to while away a portion of the time one spends in a long and irksome railway journey. Arrived at Dehra Dun, I was whirled with my luggage in a tonga to Rajpore, a distance of nine miles or so. At Rajpore the most interesting and final portion of my travels was undertaken on a mettlesome pony who bore me up the eight mile climb to Mussooree in great style. I have thrown no leg over horseflesh for many a year, and I will say nothing of that ride beyond the fact that my steed and I managed to hang together somehow; anyhow to such an extent that I was able to appreciate the gorgeous scenery through which the track meanders in the course of its rise of some 4,500 feet.

And now for Mussooree and its mankind. There being no Viceregal party here, it follows that Tom, Dick or even Harry can come here with the knowledge that no social ban of any description exists, and enjoy himself to his heart's content. And he does so accordingly. Everyone enjoys himself in Mussooree? How can one help it? In this wonderful atmosphere of fires, fir-trees and red-cheeked damsels? Nature needs no assistance in the matter of complexions here, and the blasee, jaded society belle soon becomes the healthy natural girl she was intended to be. And the children! Ye Gods! How one's heart rejoices to see all kinds from the tiny toddler to the blushing blonde of 14 or so—all full of the joy of life, reflected in their radiant faces.

My host, whose calling it is to hold the scales of justice in the Small Causes Court, has a delightful little house in the neighbourhood of the Happy Valley, and happy it is indeed. Here one can play tennis all day with no fear of the glare of the sun; other attractions in the form of Canadian tennis or badminton, and a small rink are near at hand. As regards amusements during the whole of the past week, we have had "the gondoliers," that tuneful combination of Gilbertian wit and rippling melodies. I will endeavour to avoid the fulsome flattery, usually found in criticisms of amateur efforts, but I am bound to say that Mrs. Raw's rendering of Tessa could hardly have been improved on any stage. Her beautiful contralto voice was heard to the very best advantage, and her vivacious natural acting always kept the piece going. Next in order of merit was Mr. M. Cann as the grand inquisitor; his clear diction brought out all the points in this amusing character, though at times when rendering his two songs he showed a tendency to descend to a lower comedian than I associate with the Savoy traditions. Captain St. George Kirke, to whom all the credit of the actual production of the piece is due, did well as Marco, and his genuine tenor voice frequently revived recollections of the inimitable Courtice Pounds in this part. Both Captain Kirke and Mr. Cann have had experience of the Simla stage. Mrs. Whitty as Casilda, and Miss Latham as Gianetta both looked very pretty and sang charmingly: while Mr. Cunningham as Giuseppe was always really delightful to look at, though I understand he has not had much stage experience. Miss Bertha Trench, who is not entirely unknown to Bombay playgoers made a clever study of the Duchess, her solio being specially well rendered. The chorus had been well and carefully drilled, and were not so stiff as amateur choruses frequently are. The production of a piece like "The Gondoliers" with its countless little worries and troubles, and constant hard work within a period of one calendar month reflects the greatest credit on all concerned and Captain Kirke in particular.

One point that strikes one about Mussooree is its extent: it seems to spread itself for about four miles, and level ones too, along the hills; consequently there are innumerable walks, none of which need be fatiguing in the least: there are only four methods of getting about, viz., rickshaw, pony, dandy or walking and I am inclined to think the last is the most generally satisfactory. There is really no society in the strict sense of the word: one can know just as few or just as many people as one likes, without losing caste either way. For a bachelor it would be difficult to find a better place wherein to spend a holiday, short or long. The Charleville Hotel is almost world famous, and the bachelor's quarters contained therein are palatial; compared, anyhow, with the average Indian hotel. My short speech here is fast drawing to a close, and it is with bitter feelings of regret that I view the prospect of descending to the arid plains one views daily from the one side of the Mall, while on the other the snow-capped peaks of the Himalayas seem to beckon one to stay and forget that there is such a place as Bombay.

TROOPS AND THE SUPPRESSION OF RIOTS.

A correspondent of the "Times," who writes with much practical knowledge, discusses, in an article "The Soldier's Problem," that is, the duties of an officer in command of troops engaged in the suppression of riots and other disturbances. It is not a theoretical question; as the article points out, the subject may become, as it has been lately, one of great gravity, and it is important that soldiers and civilians should understand their rights and duties. The former may be pardoned if they are sometimes perplexed how to act, and if they feel a little sore at the criticisms to which they are exposed when they have come in conflict with a riotous mob. The rules for their guidance as explained in a series of decisions in cases arising out of the Gordon Riots, "Peterloo," and the Bristol riots, are far from definite. The correspondent points out some of the many pitfalls in the path of an officer called upon to act in the face of rioters. It is a caricature of our common law to say that, if certain circumstances, if the soldier fires he may be hanged, and if he does not he may be shot. But the caricature has in it the elements of truth. A distinguished general, Sir Charles Napier, writing upon "the soldier's problem" many years ago, when the Bristol disturbances were still fresh in every one's mind, attacked the law relating to riots as stupid and unfair to all concerned, especially to officers. "The more I see of my profession," he began his trenchant criticism by saying, the more I am convinced that our Code ought to be wholly unconnected with the ordinary Courts of Justice; and that it cannot under any circumstances act advantageously in union with the latter. The more we become lawyers the less we are soldiers." He complained bitterly of the extreme uncertainty in cases in which their conduct ought to be guided by rules laid down with the utmost practicable degree of precision. Troops should not put forth their strength hastily, but a definite period for the passive endurance of attacks should be fixed. "It may be and is very proper to bring officers to court-martial who have acted wrongly; but it is surely just to lay down rules by which officers may judge how to act rightly." The position of the soldier was painful and hazardous, surrounded by so many difficulties that it was unfair to expose him to the uncertainties of trial by jury. "Let him answer," said Sir Charles Napier, "for his conduct to the King and Parliament, and before a court-martial, but not before a jury."

There is not the slightest chance, says the "Times," that this recommendation will be adopted in this country. We know nothing of military law as understood in some continental countries. A "state of siege" has a fairly precise meaning elsewhere. With us it is unknown. It is still true, as stated by Chief Justice Tindal, that "the law acknowledges no distinction between the soldiers and the private individual. The soldier is still a citizen lying under the same obligation and invested with the same authority to preserve the place of the King as any other subject." The matter has been the subject of much inquiry since these words were spoken. But no substantial change in the law has been made. Nor has there been put forward any practical proposal for making the intervention of the military as effective as it is, while diminishing the risk of serious casualties. Before the Select Committee which inquired, in 1893, into the riots at Featherstone, the late Sir Redvers Buller was examined as to this part of the problem. As a soldier of experience, he saw no alternative to employing, if the occasion clearly called for it, the ordinary firearms. In the true interests of humanity he deprecated the use of a less dangerous bullet or of a different cartridge. "The net results would be less humane"; and opinion shared, it is probable by all who can speak from experience of the psychological effect of the prevalence of a belief in an angry, excited crowd of men that if they did the worst the soldiers would not retaliate in kind.

It is hard that an officer should, in order to appreciate exactly the nature of his duties, have not only to master some twenty paragraphs in the King's Regulations, but also the purport or general tendency of the common law as explained by Mr. Justice Bayley and Mr. Justice Holroyd in cases arising out of the "Peterloo" affair. But he will not we may be sure fall into the errors of some of his predecessors nor will he probably suffer from difficulties which they experienced owing to the conduct of magistrates who did not understand their duty. We shall never again see what happened during the Gordon Riots, when owing to a mistaken conception of their duties to quote the words of a Judge speaking of that event soldiers with arms in their hands stood by and saw felonies committed, houses burnt and pulled down before their eyes by persons whom they might lawfully have put to death if they could not otherwise prevent them." No soldier could to-day make any such mischievous blunder. Nor are we likely, one would fain believe to see signs of the anxiety to escape responsibility or to shift its burden which led to the prolongation of the Bristol riots. The soldier's problem is difficult. But so far he has had generally one comfort. His conduct, if challenged, will be finally judged by a jury of his countrymen, who, if at all fair-minded, will understand the difficulty of his position and decide accordingly—and who will very rarely append to their verdict (as happened lately) an unjustifiable and offensive rider. And if a jury should make a mistake and convict any one who has striven to do his duty, the prerogative of the Crown is sure to be exercised in his favour.

SPORTING NEWS.

BOMBAY MOUNTED SPORTS.

Opening Day.

The pleasure of the first day of the Bombay Mounted Sports was spoilt by an unfortunate accident in the fourth event. This was the V.C. race and in the second heat J. L. Thompson's horse came down as he was rounding the second bend, and rolled over the rider's legs. The left leg was fractured below the knee, and after he had been attended by Captain Steele I.M.S., he was taken in a motor-car to St. George's Hospital.

Except for this, the sports opened in a very promising manner, there being plenty of riders and some close competition. In the first event, tent pegging on horses, there were eight competitors, and A. E. Baird was a rather easy winner. In the second tent-pegging event (on ponies) nine men rode and L. H. Savile won with T. D. Moore a good second. The jumping, in which seventeen horses took part, was only moderate but provided a close finish. H. F. Lodge on Asbestos did two very good rounds and then G. C. Phillips and H. P. Adair did a third round to decide second and third placing, Phillips on Timothy having the better of this by a narrow margin of points. In the polo bucket and ball event no one succeeded in securing full points and H. G. W. Meikle proved the winner with Moore second.

The next event was the V. C. race run in two heats. In the first J. H. Knight Bruce got a big lead on the return journey, but near the first turn he dropped his dummy. This allowed Moore, who again was well ahead of the others, to pass him and win easily. Knight Bruce was nearly caught by A. E. Baird and A. D. Shanks, but after a fine race just managed to win with Shanks third. In the second heat, the riders, after dismounting had some trouble with their horses, who evidently were disturbed by the band. Savile got well away in front of the rest and won well. In the final E. G. Pearson won easily with Moore and Knight-Bruce second and third. The Pre-Raphaelite Stakes provided as usual some amusing attempts by the ladies to make hurried drawings of birds and animals, and was won by Mrs. Pearson and E. G. Pearson, with Miss Stileman and L. H. Savile second. The final event was of course the scurry, and some interest was taken from this by the scratching of Buccaneer, who had gone lame in the morning. It was won easily by Moore's Stumpy, with 50 yds., handicap.

POONA DIVISIONAL FOOTBALL.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

POONA, OCT. 10.

The final of the Poona Divisional Football tournament which incidently also decides the team destined to represent the Division in the Delhi Tournament was played this evening between the Loyal North Lancas and the Dorsets. The game was an extremely hard and fast one with one goal all, sides changing over at the half time. Nothing was scored in the second period and the tie necessitated extra time during which the Loyal North Lancas scored two more goals thus winning by 3 goals to one. Mrs. Alderson, wife of Major General Alderson, presented the Cup to the winners.

STANDARD BAROMETER READING.

The reading of the barometer at the Colaba Observatory corrected for index error and reduced to 32° F. and for Calcutta standard at 8 a.m. (local time) 9th October, was 29·921 inches. The height of Observatory barometer cistern above zero of the tide gauge at Apollo Bunder is 47 feet. The height of tide in the stream above zero of the tide gauge was 8 feet at 8 a.m. (local time). The temperature correction for a mercurial barometer, supposing the reading to be 30·00 inches and that of the attached thermometer 80deg. F. will be 14in. and this will be higher or lower by 01 inch for each 4 degrees. In the case of the aneroid no temperature correction is required. Should the height of barometer cistern either mercurial or aneroid above zero of tide gauge be different from 47 feet, it will read higher or lower by 01 inch for each 11 feet. The readings above are distinct from those given in the daily weather report to which different corrections have been applied.

THE LADIES' CORNER.

WHAT OF THE CRINOLINE?

What is to be said, that has not already been said, upon the subject of the crinoline as a sartorial possibility for winter wear? The whole matter, says Mary Howarth in the "World" of mail week, seems to be capable of a very brief summing up, and the verdict may well be left for the opinion of femininity to determine. The jury that refused to give the harem skirt freedom is not likely to extend much mercy to the crinoline. But there are aspects of the question that may be smiled upon. We ought not to forget that it was only when the fashion of wearing an actual cage beneath the dress came into vogue that the inconveniences of the distended skirt became apparent and merited masculine disapproval. Women took up far too much room in the world then, and the crinoline was justly blamed for their preponderance. But if we are content to stiffen the hems of our frocks and to wear a jupon of some stalwart material incapable of suppression, there may be a future for the voluminous toilette, and once more the tempestuous petticoat will be a resource as well as a joy. There will then be a demand for buckram and starch, and, it may be, for silks capable of standing alone. Perhaps, also for the buxom figure! Who knows?

WHITE SERGE AND WOOL FRINGE.

Meanwhile, the manufacturers of dress fabrics are doubtless chuckling; they may not take into consideration the undoubted fact that every wise woman cuts her coat according to her cloth, and when it requires a few yards only, has two coats instead of one, whereas should fashion demand a voluminous covering, one only must suffice. The girl of the present generation has at least half-a-dozen "little" frocks to the single gown of elaborate design and much material possessed by her grandmother. But why dilate upon an obvious matter? There are many better resources than mere speculation, and to actual facts it will be well to attend. One kind of trimming the dress-makers have determined to popularise. I allude to fringe, which has proved so expensive a luxury in silk and bullion that it is being introduced now in a much less costly edition. Made of wool, it is very effective upon a serge frock, and in that guise has been, and will be seen, both in the ball pattern and the long straight ends hung from a knotted edge. White serge is in the ascendant now, but the relief of colour is added to it, in some cases contrived by means of a scarlet leather belt, coat-revers, and a bag to match, and in others by touches of cretonne. But even when cretonne makes the collar and faces the cuffs, the almost inevitable patent leather belt, appears.

A QUAINT EFFECT IN SLEEVES.

I have made acquaintance lately with several corsage-trimming novelties, one of which confirms my suspicion that the last of the lop-sided decorations has not been seen. The tailors do not appear to mind in the very least leaving one coat sleeve apparently unfinished by depriving it of the braided cuff the other has, and in a very remarkable case noticed the other day, a velvet gown with rich embroideries on one side of the corsage, and a fur-edged sleeve, was finished on the other arm by a drapery like half a dolman, suggesting the idea that its wearer had slipped one arm through her little cape and forgotten to do any more. Loosely hanging braces form another trimming that is new and exceedingly becoming to the slender, for they may imply also a thin drapery bunched under the belt at the back and in the front, but slit at the sides to show that there is a fitted corsage beneath. We are evidently not going to be asked to suffer the austerity of the closely-fitting corsage of the thirties, albeit many of those that are being made fasten in front, and others that do not really do so pretend that they do. How do they pretend it? Why, by exhibiting a row of buttons and buttonholes, to be sure, while at the back the hooks and eyes are entirely hidden.

THE PREVALENT THEME—WITH VARIATIONS.

A very popular theme with multitudes of variations is the fichu. What a charm there is in its simplicity, and how easy it is to elaborate it without losing that charm! Before my mind's eyes two frocks flit, worn by delightfully pretty girls. One is made of soie ondine, changing from blue to rose in patches and streaks according to the play of light upon the sheen of the fabric, and the other of pearl-grey crepe de Chine, mounted upon steel-coloured satin. The blue and rose toilette has a corsage and short apron of rose silk, covered with blue floss embroideries, and the shoulder draperies suggest a fichu epaulette of scanty folds, with little pieces let in beneath to complete the sleeves. And upon the crepe de Chine bodice there is a kerchief, made of steel satin embroidered with green and purple grapes and edged with cream lace, one of the real old-fashioned fichus drawn into a belt of purple and green satin, beneath a bunch of satin grapes. Steel blue satin boots are worn with this costume. It is good news to tell of the revival of satin boots and slippers, for the belles of old times found them very becoming and comfortable, and their power to please has never been properly tested excepting indoors by those of this century. Thick satin is used, and the colours are chosen with a due regard for effect.

Puce is a good shade to decide upon, because it is becoming to the feet, and so are dove and a soft dun brown. Cashmere boots with kid toes and vamps ought to be tried also, and if buttons are required there are available little pearly-looking ones of a fascinating type. Large buckles are being worn on evening shoes. They are of the serrated shapes that look old-world and elegant, and are seen in three shades of gold, or in silver, both bright and tarnished.

BILLIARD COAT DESIGNS.

It would be a happy thought to wear purple slippers with a billiard coat of purple chiffon hemmed with gold, over a grey evening frock. A billiard coat is necessarily light in weight and loose in fit, but it is just sufficiently cosy to be welcome on an autumn evening. And it can be made the daintiest of possessions! The new wool embroideries applied to coarse net might account for a pretty specimen of the genus, and a very handsome design is the sunflower, which, partly raised from the pale ochre background and partly flattened against it, bears a very realistic appearance. In such a case a ball-fringe edging would be the obvious completion of the scheme. As the black note is apparent upon many of the new designs, a vetement shall be mentioned, scarcely definite enough to be called a billiard coat, and yet too large to be classified as a scarf. It is made of black net, with a herm and broad bands at the ends embroidered with "gouttes de lait," and there are slits at the sides through which the arms may be passed when a mantelet is wanted. "Gouttes de lait" or drops of milk, are the latest craze in trimmings, and are represented by pearls of the colour and consistency of petrified milk.

Speaking at Bethlehem Cape Colony, Mr. Abraham Fisher (Minister for Lands) hinted that unless the ocean mail contract trouble was amicably settled the Government would build its own mail steamers.

THE PREVENTION OF THROAT TROUBLES.

The number of men, women and children, who constantly suffer from sore throat more especially at this time of the year, presents a problem to the medical practitioner which has long given him very serious trouble. At last, this problem has been solved, and the means has been found of putting an end to this distressing condition, by a discovery which the medical profession hails as one of the most valuable gifts that they have received from Science.

The way in which this discovery has been made—the nature of the remedy, its powers and the method of its application—is described in detail by a well-known physician in a hand-book, entitled "Practical Hints on Sore Throat," which has recently been issued from the press.

A GUARD AGAINST INFECTION.

The author touches the root of the problem when he says in his work, "sore throat is not always only sore throat, but is very frequently indeed the first symptom of far graver diseases. Measles, Scarlet Fever, Diphtheria, Consumption of the Lungs, Bronchial Catarrh, Diseases of the Middle Ear, Laryngitis, and many other diseases, begin with what is apparently only a simple sore throat. Neglected, or improperly treated these progress and attack other parts, or the germs during their growth develop poisons, and these poisons obtain access to the system and damage various organs of the body. A sore throat checked at the outset may, therefore, mean a very serious illness warded off. Wulfing's Formamint prevents these diseases by cutting short the life and growth of the germ which lies at the root of them."

Infectious diseases are caused, like common sore throat, by germs which are inhaled into the mouth and throat. Wulfing's Formamint—the harmless and palatable throat tablet which Science has recently discovered—kills these germs in the mouth and throat. Wulfing's Formamint, therefore, both cures sore throat and prevents infectious diseases which originate from these germ growths. That is the gist of the whole matter. But more of the author's words are worth quoting and seriously reflecting over;

"A person who has a sore throat possesses a throat in which any germs which may chance to alight can grow much more rapidly and with much more dangerous effect than they can on a healthier throat. If, therefore, one has a weak or catarrhal throat, as evidenced by constant taking of slight colds, by frequent morning coughs or by coughing on exposure to cold air or impairment of voice after unusual speaking, medical men say with one voice—'Look carefully after that throat, or something worse will inevitably ensue.'"

GERMS MADE HARMLESS.

After pointing out the numerous objections to the old-fashioned remedy of gargling, the author continues "The new remedy, Formamint, is free from every one of these draw-backs. To use the words of a well-known throat specialist, 'What is wanted is not a new gargle but a new method—something which will destroy the germs without disturbing the affected parts. And this has actually been discovered in Wulfing's Formamint, which is now employed as a pharmaceutical product in the form of tablets. These tablets are allowed to dissolve slowly in the mouth like sweets, the saliva holding them insolution, and thus fortified, acting itself as the remedy. The drug endows the saliva with powerful antiseptic properties, and is thus enabled to destroy the matured germs and to prevent the growth of those which are developing. These tablets, in fact, give an antiseptic bath to the whole lining of the mouth and throat, and saturate it with cleansing and soothing properties."

FREE COPIES OF "PRACTICAL HINTS ON SORE THROAT."

Space forbids further quotation from this interesting and useful book, but we are asked to state that a limited number of copies have been set aside for a free distribution in India. As there is sure to be a quick demand for these, our readers are recommended to write for one immediately to the manufacturers of Formamint, Messrs. A. Wulfing and Co., (of London), P. O. Box 226, Bombay.

One feature of this hand-book which deserves special mention is the large number of letters which it contains both from medical men and distinguished patients, who have testified to the value of this remarkable remedy. Amongst these we may mention the following: "The Princess Catherine Duleep Singh has used Wulfing's Formamint tablets chiefly as a preventive against colds and sore throats, to which she is very subject, and has found them most effective. If they are taken when the first symptoms appear, the cure is immediate and complete. If they are not taken quite at the beginning, the tablets, at least, greatly lessen the severity of the attack."

Sufferers from sore throat will be glad to learn that Wulfing's Formamint tablets can now be obtained of all chemists and bazaars in bottles containing fifty tablets. Care should be taken, however, to specify Wulfing's Formamint, as there are many worthless imitations about.

BY THE WAY.

WILLIAM GODWIN AND THE POPULATION QUESTION.

LETTERS have been passing, writes a correspondent, upon the seemingly moot question whether England is at present overpopulated. It may be of interest to know what William Godwin, the author of "Political Justice," thought about it over a hundred years ago, at a time when the population of Great Britain was about 10,000,000. The letter which I discovered in looking through the valuable collection of letters of my old friend and good Radical the late Hon. F. Strutt, is the more interesting as being addressed to the Rev. Mr. Malthus, and, so far as I am aware, has never been published. William Godwin became one of the most active opponents of Malthus and the economists, and, twenty-three years after the date of the latter, issued an "Inquiry Concerning the Power of Increase in the Numbers of Mankind." To the Rev. Mr. Malthus, Albury, near Guildford, Surrey. Dear Sir,—It strikes me, upon reflection that in our conversation recently I omitted the most striking view in which it [the population question] may be placed. "Myriads of centuries, for aught I know, of still increasing population may occur before the island of Great Britain shall contain all the population it is capable of subsisting, though certainly not centuries of unchecked increase. You seem to admit, from Dr. Price, that our population at present is rather retrograde than advancing. Yet, if human beings are of any value, it is certainly desirable, "caeteris paribus," that every country shall contain its greatest number of inhabitants. Shall I not then be the irreconcilable foe of the present system of society, which produces so melancholy a consequence, and seems to cut us from hopes which must be inexpressibly dear to every lover of his kind?—I am, sir, your very humble servant—W. Godwin—Somers Town, Aug. 15, 1798.

"A RECTIFYING NOTE."

The reference to Dr. Price, the well-known mathematician and Nonconformist divine, requires a rectifying note. His table of mortality, known as the Northampton table, was hopelessly wrong, and was so much too low that it cost the Government of the day £2,000,000 of extra taxation to make good the losses through the purchase of its annuities, and caused the death of a small number of friendly societies. The basis of the error is stated to have arisen from a wrong comparison of the birth-rate to the death-rate in Northampton, since the former was calculated from the number of baptisms in a town where there was a high percentage of children born who were not baptised. Hence the population of Great Britain was by no means retrograding in the year 1798, by steadily advancing.

MORE FAMOUS POLITICAL PHRASES.

No list of the phrases which have been popularised by Lord Rosebery would be complete that failed to include the "clean slate" of his Chesterfield speech in 1901. Then, too, there was his description of the last Conservative Government as "the 'hanky-panky' Government," and lastly, the "lonely furrow." The simile of the spoon, by the way, played an important part in a speech delivered by Mr. Chamberlain at Birmingham on May 13, 1898. The speaker said: "As to the way in which Russia secured that occupation (of Port Arthur) . . . I had better, perhaps, say nothing except I have always thought it was a very wise proverb, "Who sups with the Devil must have a long spoon."

MR. SNOWDEN, M.P., ON SYNDICALISM.

Mr. Snowden, M.P., regards Syndicalism as a futile movement. In a contribution to the "Christian Commonwealth" he says: Syndicalism can never do more than sow tares among the wheat which has been planted by wise men who know that the social problem can only be solved by a slow and painful process of change; and that it will not be by the setting of class against class that advancement will be made, but by the co-operation of men and women of all classes, whose moral senses have been developed. The idea that the social milleonium is going to be established by one great dramatic act by the workers, acting under the fanaticism of revolutionary fervour, is the most ridiculous one which ever entered into the mind of man. The idea is one Mr. Snowden adds, which at times in the past has, possessed earnest and pure-souled men, "but the bloodiest pages of history bear testimony to the futility of attempting to force conditions for which neither the times nor the people are prepared."

SOME STRANGE EXPERIENCES.

Captain H. M. Seaton, the American, who is walking round the world for a wager of £7,000, is at present in Edinburgh, and has been relating some of his experiences. He left New York on April 9, 1908, and has completed 33,700 miles of his tour. The route he has to take was arranged for him, and led across the United States to San Francisco. From there he worked his passage to Honolulu, and thence to Brisbane, in Queensland. Captain Seaton has a very high opinion of the Australians and their country. "It's the best country in the world," he remarked. "Any man who wants to work can earn 10s. a day or more, and the people are always ready to help you on a bit." He was very successful as a lecturer there, and made enough money to carry him through his Asiatic journey.

TORTURED BY TIBETANS.

Leaving Townsville, in North Queensland, the Captain went to Thursday Island, and via Java, the Straits Settlements, Japan, and Siam to Burma. Twice he attempted to penetrate into Tibet, once through upper Burma and once through Bhotan. He was captured, and after being bound hand and foot for a fortnight and "tortured with red-hot irons," was able to escape by eating through his bonds and knocking down the man who stood at the door of his hut. On another occasion he and two curmans were "treed" by wild elephants, one of the natives being killed. When at Darjeeling in April 1910 he saw the Dalai Lama, who was returning to his capital after his expulsion by the Chinese.

CAPE TO CAIRO.

Captain Seatons' course next led him through the Khyber Pass to Afghanistan, into Persia, and through Baghdad, across Arabia to Aden. From there he proceeded by sea to Cape-town, and thence set out to walk to Cairo! He went through Pretoria, Bulawayo, German East Africa to the Victoria Nyanza, on to Khartoum, and from Wadi Halfa by boat to Cairo. Thence to Port Said and Alexandria, whence he sailed for Brindisi. Tramping through the peninsula, he gave very successful lectures at Naples, Rome, Florence, and Venice, and from there went through Austria and Germany to Hamburg. From there he crossed to Grimsby, which he reached on the 14th of last month, and went to Edinburgh, through Hull, Whitby, Durham, Newcastle, Alnwick and Dunbar. John o' Groats is the finish of this tremendous walk, and as he has eight months to accomplish this last stage the Captain is certain of his £7,000,

A FISHERMAN'S TRIUMPH.

Mr. J. K. L. Ross, of Montreal, has achieved a veritable triumph by landing, near Englishtown, the first Cape Breton tuna ever caught by rod and line. The capture was in itself well worth making, for this specimen of what is variously known as the tunny, horse-mackerel, mackerel-shark, or albacore, measured, "Canada" states, eight feet and weighed 630 pounds. Hitherto the harpoon has been the only weapon to which the Cape Breton tuna has succumbed, and by this method Mr. Ross had already secured a 400-pounder this summer. Mr. Ross was the pioneer of this new species of sea-angling. Since he started in 1908 he has hooked many of these again mackerel—no fewer than thirty-four during the summers of 1908-9—but he has never succeeded in landing one.

LEGACY LEFT TO ST. MATTHEW.

St. Matthew, whose festival brings the boys of Christ's Hospital on their annual visit to the City is a "weather saint" with an evil reputation. Two rhyming proverbs, "On Saint Mathew shut up the bee," and "Saint Matthew brings the cold dew," date from the days of the unreformed calendar, when this anniversary fell within our present October. It marked the beginning of winter, and gave the signal for British housewives to resume fires. Yet St. Matthew is probably the only Apostle who has had a posthumous legacy left him by a modern English admirer. Sir John Germaine bequeathed £200 to Sir Matthew Decker in the firm belief that Sir Matthew was the author of the First Gospel. This beats the wildest aberrations of the "Higher Critics."

'CUTICURA OINTMENT A SKIN-HEALER'

Writes One Skin-Sufferer. 'I Wish to Bear Testimony to the Wonders of Cuticura Remedies,' says Another. Had Tried All Kinds of Remedies, but to No Purpose. Cuticura Remedies Cured Them.

"I had been a sufferer from dry eczema on my hands for four or five years. They used to crack and bleed, and were very sore. At times they used to itch very much. I tried all kinds of remedies, and received no benefit. At last I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Remedies and purchased some Cuticura Soap and Ointment, also Pills for the blood. I am very pleased to say the first application gave me relief, and one box of Cuticura Ointment cured it. I now use the Soap regularly and the Ointment for other purposes when required, as I think it is a splendid skin-healer." (Signed) Mrs. J. W. Pickstone, 262, Stand Lane, Chapelfield, Radcliffe, Lancs., Eng., Nov. 1, 1909.

"I wish to bear testimony to the wonders of Cuticura Remedies. I had an attack of eczema on the back of my right hand which lasted three years. It came in the form of small blisters which would weep for a few days, and then dry up and peel off. After this, the blisters would again appear. I have given nearly every ointment, pill and soap a trial, but to no purpose. When I saw the advertisement for Cuticura Remedies I decided to give them a trial. I got a little Cuticura Ointment, and with another box I purchased (half of which I used) cured it." (Signed) Fred Bode, 14, Farm Rd., Sparkbrook, Birmingham, Eng., Jan. 24, 1910.

Cuticura is the most economical treatment for the skin, scalp, hair and hands. A tablet of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient. Sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27, Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 10, Rue de la Chaussee d'Antin; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; India, B. K. Paul, Calcutta; So. Africa, Lennon, Ltd., Cape Town, etc.; U. S. BOOKS AND BOOKMEN.

FRENCH METHODS OF CRITICISM.

Mr. Hedgcock, the author of the excellent book on Thomas Hardy, is, it is known, an Englishman, but perhaps no Englishman before his day has so completely assimilated French methods of criticism. He is French in his skill in bottoming an isolated idea on its appropriate theory, in his intuition into the significance of details, and, finally, in the exception he takes, in such a novel as "Tess," to the intrusion of the author's personal views of the universe and human society. This last point an English reader would not greatly notice. He has been so accustomed to his own novelists discussing their characters with their readers, sympathising with them in their troubles and commenting upon the fineness of their conduct, that he forgets the extent to which the duty of impassivity and detachment are incumbent upon the author of a didactic novel.

NOVELIST'S DIFFICULT TASK.

In the case of such a novel, however, an author cannot be too detached. He must, of course, whether he will or not let some shadow of himself fall upon the page. His work must reveal, directly or indirectly, his view of life and his habits of thought. Nevertheless his didactic purpose must be in the background. His thesis may be the foundation of his work, but like other foundations it must be buried out of sight. Instead of its being thrust upon the reader's attention, the reader must find it out for himself. The novelist is in that case a difficult task, for the tendency is for one who is at first interested equally in his theories and his art to end by becoming more interested in the former than in the latter. Moral preoccupations have a way of deepening as life goes on, and the work of art suffers in consequence. In the case of Hardy, it suffers by the intrusions of the preacher of pessimism. In such a writer as Bourget it suffers in respect of the very framework of the story. The characters become unreal, improbable combinations take place, and the spirit of the pamphleteer invades the passionless province of the romancist. It is this which makes the fatal difference between such books as "Mensonges" and "Le Disciple" on the one hand and the sequence of novels beginning with "L'Etape" on the other. In the latter the author is so convinced of the truth and importance of the doctrines which he is inculcating that he ceases to guard himself against going into extremes in character and incident.

THE SUBJECT OF REVIEWING.

It is natural that from time to time discussions should break out in literary papers of the whole subject of reviewing for writers are either authors or reviewers and the subject is of interest to both. One of the questions which most often occur to the mind of a writer of book notices, and one the answer to which very much determines the quality and usefulness of his work, is. For whose benefit is the review written? It is not the simple question that it seems, and it is easier to say for whom it is not written than for whom it is. It is not, for one thing, written for the benefit of the publisher. A notice has, of course, an advertising value, and it has it although the notice is not entirely favourable, but naturally it is not that value that determines how it is to be written. Nor may a reviewer greatly concern himself with the requirements of librarians. The newspapers which produce notices promptly enough to be of use to librarians are seldom absolutely trustworthy, while those whose notices are well considered and well-informed are generally too late to be of use. The two parties chiefly interested are the author and the general reader. The general reader is quite entitled to hold that a newspaper is written for his instruction and entertainment, and to claim that a review should be of such a nature as to enable him to determine whether the book is the thing he wants or not, but the author wants something more. He wants to know an expert's opinion of his work. A very large proportion of first volumes of verse or fiction are issued with no other object than to elicit such an opinion. The author simply wishes to know whether it is worth his while going on, and he has a right to be told. A review, accordingly, which in respect of its being descriptive should approximate to a "fait divers," and in respect of its being a weighed and reasoned judgment to a leading article would not only answer the purpose for which it was written, but the further purpose of guiding those who read the literary columns of their newspapers with a view to ascertaining what sort of things in books are to be commended and what sort to be condemned.

FREE COPIES OF BOOKS.

Referring to a recent paragraph on free copies of books to the national libraries, "G. A." writes that his belief that a copy of every book published in England is to be found in the British Museum has been shattered. On two occasions he has applied for books and found them wanting, and on one of the occasions he was told that copies were sent by publishers only when asked for. No system, however, perfect in theory, ever works out perfectly in practice, and no doubt there are lacunæ even on the shelves of the British Museum. Nevertheless we believe that the law is as stated by Mr. John Murray in his letter to the "Times" of July 7. "As matters now stand," he wrote, "a publisher is compelled to deliver a copy of the best edition of every book published (whether copyright or not) to the British Museum; the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, the Advocates' Library in Edinburgh, and Trinity College, Dublin, have a right to claim a copy within twelve months of publication under a penalty of £5 for non-delivery." The fact that the Act specifies that the copy sent must be "the whole book, with all maps and illustrations belonging thereto," has put publishers upon asking whether the best binding also is necessary—an important consideration in the case of expensive books,—and Dr. Kenyon, in answer to a question, addressed him by the editor of the "Publishers' Circular," has intimated that the Museum has always preferred to an ornamental binding one that was plain and substantial.

INDIVIDUALISM IN TASTE.

There is in the current "Book Monthly" an article which, while interesting as an independent and delightfully unconventional confession of literary preferences, will strike most people as an illustration of the perils of excessive individualism in the matter of taste. The writer, who is a lady, claims that it is her practice to read only books that interest her. Neither the censures nor the eulogies of critics have influenced her in her choice of reading. She has never "read against the grain," and advises her readers not to do so either. There are many who need no such advice, and out of their ranks the readers of unliterary popular favourites are recruited. Think of her preferences. Mrs. Henry Wood is a prime favourite, and the writer maintains that her books "will be read and enjoyed just so long as there are young men and maidens in the world." She much prefers Jane Braddon to Jane Austen. Carlyle she never "made any pretence of liking or understanding." Of Dickens she likes only "Oliver Twist" and "David Copperfield." She has never greatly cared for any of Mr. Hardy's books, and, as for Thackeray, he has never appealed to her in the least. Now it is clear that a writer who talks thus does not pose as a superior person, and most people will find something refreshing in her candour. Nevertheless the reflection must occur that it is to be regretted that one who has apparently a strong taste in literature should be content that it should remain an untutored taste. The truth is that in the make-up of a good reader there is in addition to the clear perception of what it is that appeals to him in the books he likes a keen curiosity as to what it is that appeals to others in the books he does not like. He is modest enough to believe that there are things that he may learn, and he does not object to reading against the grain, in the sense of putting forth mental effort to attain a point of view that was not originally his own, if by that means he can be initiated into the enjoyment of what were to him before mere sealed books.

VETARZO BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD.

This remarkable compound, the result of the latest developments and achievements of modern chemistry, pharmacology, and therapeutics, is without equal in all cases of defective nerve power, whether induced by worry, over-work, unhealthy climate, dissipation, excess, youthful imprudence, or other influences incidental to the wear and tear and haste or overstrain of modern life. Sleeplessness, tremblings, palpitation, nervous dyspepsia, low spirits, mental and bodily prostration, muscular and local weakness, general and nervous debility, faulty nutrition, premature decay or deficiency of the vital forces, impaired vitality, harassing dreams, night disturbances, sudden startings, dimness of sight, defective hearing, loss of memory, inability to perform the various duties of life, or to enjoy its pleasures, restlessness that can settle to nothing, irritability of temper, female complaints, hysteria, painful periods, backache, bearing down sensations, nervous headache, wasting disease, night sweats, and all other phases of brain and nerve exhaustion, are successfully combated by this highly scientific preparation. Bracing up the system generally, it gives tone to the exhausted nerves, arrests all weakening wasting discharges, involuntary losses, &c.; restores the failing energies, and imparts new life and vigour to what had so recently seemed worn out, "used up," and valueless.

VETARZO BLOOD MEDICINE.

Never before was there anything like it, nor can its marvellous properties ever be equalled in all cases of poorness, impurity, or other imperfection of the blood from whatever cause arising. No sooner is it imbibed into the system than it permeates and penetrates to the minutest capillaries, overcoming and expelling the virus of disease, wheresoever and in whatsoever form met with; removing all blotches, pimples, scurf, scurvy, scrofulous and glandular swellings, discolorations, roughness and unsightly patches, &c. Its effects are almost magical in the treatment of gout, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, pains and swellings of the joints, discharges, secondary symptoms, eczema, lepra, psoriasis, bad legs, bad breasts, abscesses, ulcers, sores, goitre or Derbyshire neck, it improves the general health, and quickly removes long-standing bronchitis, asthma and hacking, straining, spasmodic cough, too often the precursor of consumption.

CAUTION.—Ask for "VETARZO Brain and Nerve Food," or "VETARZO Blood Medicine," whichever is required, and see that you get them, as unprincipled vendors often try to palm off inferior preparations (usually their own manufacture), for the sake of extra profit. Price in England, 2/9. Every genuine bottle of these medicines bears the British Government Stamp with the words "VETARZO REMEDIES" impressed thereon, in white letters on a red ground, by direction of His Majesty's Hon. Commissioners. Registered Trade Mark "VETARZO." Legal proceedings will be taken against persons pirating.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS:

SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,

Physician to the Westminster Hospital.

"The value of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,

Physician to the Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.

"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod Liver Oil, that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

JOSEPH J. POPE Esq., M.R.C.S.,

Late Staff Surgeon, Army, Professor of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution, London.

"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognized; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils, and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of DR. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognised."

DR. R. C. CROFT,

Author of "Handbook for the Nursery."

"DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is almost a specific in many of the Diseases peculiar to Infancy and Childhood, and I have seen marked benefit produced by its use. Patients prefer it to the Pale Oils, and are able to retain it more comfortably."

Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is Supplied ONLY in IMPERIAL Half-Pints, Pints and Quarts, sealed with BETTS' Patent Capsule impressed on the top with Dr. DE JONGH'S Stamp, and on the side with his Signature, and the Signature of ANSAR, HARFORD & Co.; and bearing under the wrapper a Label with the same Stamp and Signatures, WITHOUT THESE MARKS NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE.

Sold by all respectable Chemists, Druggists, and Storekeepers throughout the World.

A Clergyman

Nervous Collapse, Brain Fag, Neuralgia—

For getting things done, making things go, the invigorating stimulus of Phosferine cannot be equalled, says the Rev. A. H. Field. Fully aware that as a clergyman he is bound to make sure of the accuracy of his estimation of Phosferine, this gentleman states that, distinct from other cases, he has verified and tested the efficacy of the tonic himself. It was Phosferine, and Phosferine alone, he says, which raised him from the nervous collapse, remedied the brain-fag and neuralgia which held down his efforts and arrested his plans over a lengthy period. Since taking Phosferine he is entirely free from nervous distresses, and can put his whole heart and energies into his work, and indeed, such is his activity that he has roused many helpers to his cause. Experience has taught the Rev. A. H. Field that numbers of people do not realise their languor and half-hearted efforts are due to lack of nerve force, and he believes they will quicker appreciate the efficacy of Phosferine by learning of his own recovery.

Have No Existence Now.

Rev. A. H. Field, 336, Brettenham Road, Walthamstow, writes: "It gives me much pleasure to testify to the beneficial effects of Phosferine in many cases of nervous disorder, where I have advised the use of your tonic. Some four years ago I myself had a nervous breakdown, and a friend advised Phosferine. I took his advice, and I speedily found that I had acted wisely, for the neuralgic pains and the mental weariness soon took flight, and I was thoroughly braced up. Recently some members of my church, at my suggestion, tried the remedy, and were quite satisfied with the beneficial results. I have advised its use now for nearly four years, and in no case has it yet proved a failure. When one thinks of the great number of so-called nerve remedies, it is satisfactory to find at least one upon which reliance can be placed. I wish your Phosferine every success. When preaching away, I have noticed Phosferine finds a place in the village homes."
